

DANIELS' SPEECH
STARTS RIOT

Sailors, Aided by Civilians, Destroy Property.

WAR SECRETARY IS BITTER

Attacks Red Flag and Its Adherents
In Speech at Seattle—Dines on Flag-ship While Mob Raids Properties of Socialists and Industrial Workers.

Seattle, Wash., July 19.—Sailors and marines from the United States Pacific reserve fleet at anchor here and 100 civilians sacked Socialist and Industrial Workers of the World headquarters here while Secretary of the Navy Daniels was dining with Admiral Reynolds on the latter's flagship.

The riot is said to have been inspired partly by a denunciation of the red flag made by Secretary Daniels in an address at a banquet at the Rainier club.

After storming the uptown headquarters of the Industrial Workers, the rioters attacked the big headquarters on Washington street in the southern part of the city. The contents of the building were dragged into the street and a bonfire made of them. While the disorder was in progress, policemen made mild efforts to persuade the rioters to disperse.

An attack then was made on Socialist headquarters. Furniture was dragged into the street and destroyed. Socialist literature was stamped upon and the building was decorated with small American flags.

By this time word of the disorders had reached officers of the fleet and a provost guard was started ashore in cutters to arrest all men ashore.

Daniels Attacks Mayor Cottrell.

"The red flag has no place in this country," Secretary Daniels declared, "and believers in it have no place in this country. A mayor who does not enforce the law against the red flag is not fit to hold office, and people who believe in the red flag should be driven from the country."

Word was passed about the street that the secretary had made an address devoted to the two flags, and had urged that all believers in the red flag be driven out of the country. A wrecking party of about a dozen men, aided by several members of the Washington naval militia and by about 100 young civilians, who made most of the noise, started out.

Waving United States flags the storming party swooped down on a cart news stand of a Socialist at the busiest corner of the city. The cart was broken to splinters in a moment and the big stock of Socialist papers and magazines strewn in the street and jumped upon.

The mob proceeded to the Socialist headquarters, smashed in the plate glass front and nailed American flags on the front of the building.

Two policemen smiled complacently upon the wreckers. The sailors started to drag the furniture and books into the street, but the policemen stopped them.

Another self-appointed leader led the party toward an old church which had just been vacated by the Moderates. As the naval men were crossing an intersecting street they were overhauled by an automobile full of policemen, headed by a captain who told the sailors that if they did not disperse he would arrest every one of them.

The policemen, by maneuvering, separated the men in uniform and scattered them. No handling of them was necessary. The men shouted to the police:

"Your mayor won't do anything to protect the flag, so we are saving your city."

A young civilian who had been endeavoring to incite the sailors kept shouting to them to "Go and get Mayor Cottrell." No arrests were made. During the administration of Mayor George Cottrell all street orators have been given full license to speak as long and loudly as they chose, provided they did not block traffic or display the red flag.

DIES BENEATH WRECKED CAR

Paper Manufacturer Killed and Companions Injured.

Grafton, Wis., July 19.—George Hoberg, thirty-nine years old, is dead; George Hurschinger, thirty-four years old, is seriously injured and two women are severely cut and bruised as the result of an automobile accident near here. All are from Green Bay, Wis.

Hoberg, who is a well known Wisconsin paper manufacturer, was driving the car and when he attempted to turn a corner while going at a rapid rate the car skidded and turned over into the ditch. Hoberg was crushed beneath the car.

MULHALL LIES
M'CLAVE SAYS

Admits He Accepted Help From "Lobbyist."

THOUGHT REFERENCES GOOD

New Jersey Candidate Denies, However, Manufacturers Agent Paid for His Meals or Spent $3,500 in Aiding Fight.

Washington, July 19.—S. Wood McClave, Republican candidate for congress in a special election to be held in the Sixth New Jersey district next Tuesday, came to Washington and told the senate lobby investigating committee that Martin M. Mulhall, late "lobbyist" for the National Association of Manufacturers, had perjured himself in his testimony before the committee.

McClave denied emphatically that Mulhall had raised or spent money for him, had managed his campaign or had been his close companion and associate during his fight against William Hughes for the Sixth district nomination in 1910.

Mulhall, the witness swore, came unknown to him in his office in New York city in 1910, introduced himself and said he wanted to help him.

Mulhall Thought He Would Win.

"It looks as if you were going to get the nomination," he quoted Mulhall as saying, "and I wanted to know how you stood on public questions."

McClave said he replied he stood for protection and fair dealing to labor, and that Mulhall responded, "Our organization stands for the same thing and wants to help you."

He added that Mulhall insisted upon hiring two rooms in Paterson as headquarters, but that he visited them only a few times and then saw only a few newspaper men.

Mulhall had letters from Vice President Sherman, Congressman Gardner and others, the witness said.

"It was my first experience," he added, "and I supposed that a man endorsed by such men must be all right."

The New Jersey man had been held up to the committee by Mulhall as one whose meal checks and other expenses Mulhall had continually paid for and for whom Mulhall raised and spent more than $3,500. This McClave said was wholly without truth.

McClave said he could obtain no aid from the Republican national committee and that when Mulhall came as the representative of the National Association of Manufacturers, he was willing to accept their assistance.

WESTON CALLS RIVAL FRAUD

Accuses Debs of Riding—His Own Pace Is Set by Contract.

Madison, Wis., July 19.—Edward Payson Weston, walking from New York to the Twin Cities, reached Madison.

Weston said he ignored the competition of Samuel Debs, who is trying to make the distance in forty days. If he were not under contract to do it in sixty days, Weston said he could make the trip in forty without trouble.

The venerable walker referred to Debs as a fraud. He said railroad men have told him that Debs was seen riding on box cars, and that Chicago policemen had seen Debs crossing the city of Chicago on elevated trains.

Weston is accompanied by a party of newspaper men and by his daughter, Miss Anna Weston, traveling in automobiles.

PINNED DOWN; KILLS SELF

Engineer Crushed Under Overturned Locomotive Cuts Throat.

Decatur, Ala., July 19.—Pinned beneath an overturned locomotive, Huston Fleming, an engineer, put an end to his torture by cutting his throat when spectators of his plight refused his request to kill him.

Fleming, with Floyd Hamilton, an air inspector, was testing a new locomotive in the Louisville and Nashville yards when it was hurled from the tracks by a switch engine and overturned.

HALF OF HOPPERS KILLED

Poisoned Mash, Distributed in Kansas, Proves Effective.

Dodge City, Kan., July 19.—More than half of the grasshoppers in this county were killed by the poisoned mash the farmers recently scattered over their fields, according to a report by P. A. Claassen, state entomologist. Mr. Claassen after a forty-mile drive through the county, said from 50 to 60 per cent of the pests have been killed and that another spreading of the poisoned mash would exterminate them.

SAVED IN NIAGARA
BY HUMAN CHAIN

Youth Falls From Railing Into River.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 19.—Truman Chapman, twenty-two years old, of Hamilton, Ont., was rescued from the brink of the American falls by four men, one of whom took a desperate chance to reach him.

Chapman was sitting on the iron railing just above Prospect Point and was seen to topple backwards suddenly into the stream.

After striking the water Chapman's body lodged against two projections of rock, and this undoubtedly saved him from almost instant death.

When the cry went up that a man was in the water, John Hughes and Thomas S. Winders of Niagara Falls, Thomas D. Thomas of Toronto and a fourth man, who did not give his name, leaped over the railing.

The unidentified man waded several feet, but could not reach Chapman, Hughes, Winders and Thomas then formed a chain from the iron fence, and clinging to the unknown man's hand enabled him to reach Chapman.

Twice the man at the end of the chain was swept from his feet, but he clung to his burden, and the united efforts of the men nearest, who had better footing, finally swung the two of them out of the grasp of the current.

Chapman was unconscious for more than an hour after being taken ashore. Relatives said he was subject to fits and undoubtedly was stricken while sitting on the railing.

THOUGHT MASONS AFTER HIM

Suicide Believed They Sought Vengeance.

Chicago, July 19.—A remarkable story of the latter years of the retired packer, Kossuth H. Bell, who committed suicide here recently, was told to a coroner's jury here by his widow, Mrs. Emma M. Bell, from whom the decedent separated three years ago.

About five years ago, Mrs. Bell related, her husband became involved with a married woman whose husband was a Mason. When Bell, himself an active Mason, learned this, he worried until his mind became affected and he thought that the Masons were pursuing him.

"He would let me put a napkin on the table because he said that the Masons signalled with them and he made me keep the window shades down so that the 'gang' could not see him," said the witness.

WILL NAME CONSULS SOON

More Nominations to Demonstrate Wilson's Use of Civil Service.

Washington, July 19.—A large number of nominations of consular offices will be transmitted to the senate in the course of a few days.

The list will include many of the names contained in the slate which failed of confirmation at the close of the Taft administration.

It is said this list will be the first demonstration of the purpose of President Wilson to continue civil service in consular service.

EUGENIC TRAGEDY.

New York, July 19.—The first eugenic marriage tragedy was enacted here when Frank Castaro, a barber, shot his fiancée, mortally wounding her, because she refused to marry him after a physician had said he was too ill to wed. After shooting the girl, Castaro killed himself. The couple had agreed to marry when Castaro had saved enough to buy a barber shop. He had saved that amount by working both night and day shifts, but it had cost him his health.

CURRENCY BILL
TO FOLLOW TARIFF

Money Legislation Delay Due to Lack of Information.

SENATORS MUST STUDY UP.

Division in House Banking and Currency Committee Recalls Days of Chairman Walker of Massachusetts. Colonel Edwards' Experience With the Ghosts of Statuary Hall.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, July 19.—[Special.]—Currency legislation next November or December is the meaning of the action by the senate banking and currency committee in postponing consideration of the pending bill until after the tariff bill has passed the senate. The ostensible reason for postponement is that the senators who are members of the committee want to participate in the tariff debate, which is natural, but there is also the further fact that many senators "shy" at currency legislation.

They are in doubt. They want information and will grope about for a time trying to find out what should be done. They will have an opportunity to study the subject during the tariff debate, as it is not expected that the senators will remain in the chamber during the long speeches.

Walker Recalled.

The division in the house banking and currency committee reminds one that the Aldrich-Vreeland bill, the only currency measure that has passed in years, had to come from outside that committee. The members could not agree on anything. Years ago John H. Walker of Massachusetts was chairman of the committee, then numbering seventeen members, and worked hard to get a bill agreed upon and reported.

But the same differences of opinion as have existed and now exist prevented anything from being done. One day Walker stepped into the committee room, and the other sixteen members were seated at the table. He glared at them for an instant and remarked: "Sixteen asses; sixteen unmitigated asses!" then adding after a pause, "And the chairman is a greater ass than all for trying to accomplish anything with such material!"

His Last Tariff Experience.

Colonel Edwards, one of the oldest doorkeepers of the senate, was requisitioned for duty during the long caucus on the tariff bill, but he says that was easy compared with the last Democratic bill. He was then the confidential employee of Senator Vest and handled everything for that senator while the subcommittee worked on the Wilson bill.

"We used to be up in a little room near the clock," said Colonel Edwards, "until 3 o'clock in the morning. There was no one about except Tom Dawson of the Associated Press and Frank Whitehead of the United Press, myself and the ghosts of the capitol. I went over one night to look at the dead men." (The colonel referred to the statues in statuary hall.) "The lightning was flashing, and I found all those fellows staring at me. It made my flesh creep. I didn't go there any more."

"Homer Nods."

Senator Bacon, the most dignified, the most punctilious, the greatest stickler for senatorial decorum, was discussing a bill and in expressing his amazement that such a measure should be presented said, "It completely knocked me off my pins."

"Did the senator say 'pins'?" inquired Senator Lewis, with an incredulous air. And Bacon acknowledged that his surprise had led him to use improper language.

Lane's Letters.

Much time does Senator Lane devote to letter writing. He writes letters to everybody he knows and answers all his correspondence. At first he thought his secretary might write some of the letters, but he tore up a bunch after the first trial because they did not have the personal twist which he likes to give them. He wants the receiver of the letter to know that Lane of Oregon was on the job when it was written.

Senatorial Rivals.

From several states come senators who are rivals politically, and the result is that they watch each other carefully. When one gets a little advertising the other gets busy and adds to his reputation. When one enters a debate the other tries to get in on the same subject. It is an interesting game and means that the state gets the very best there is in their senators.

Keeping Executive Secrets.

For twenty years Tom Dawson was connected with a news organization, and his most distasteful and important work was getting the executive session secrets and publishing them. Now he is executive clerk of the senate. He must attend all executive sessions and keep the records.

Many newspaper men have been wondering how it seems to Dawson to watch proceedings which he had to get by "grapevine" in the days gone by. "I'll bet Tom Dawson can do those sessions with his eyes shut," said one man. "He's been getting that stuff as long it must come natural to him."

Laziness.

Laziness is the deadliest of all diseases, for the disease it prevents one from taking the remedy.

SENATOR BRISTOW.

Started Hot Debate In Senate Chamber.

Charges that Senator Bristow of Kansas was willing to accept a federal position and work only half time at it featured the debate in the senate over Secretary Bryan's policy of lecturing to add to his income.

HEAT KILLS MANY
IN CENTRAL STATES

Twelve Dead in Louisville and Three at St. Louis.

Chicago, July 19.—The heat wave over the Central West has been relieved in many sections. While some cities sweltered in the hundreds, others were refreshed by moderate temperatures. Joplin, Mo., with 106, was the hottest city. Louisville, Ky., and Arkansas City, Kan., suffered at 104, while St. Louis and Evansville, Ind., registered 102.

There was a little refreshment for Evansville apparently, the thermometer standing at 96. St. Louis faced a hot night at 88. Medicine Hat, Can., reputed source of cold waves, was 96. Suffering was intense at Louisville, Ky., where extreme humidity with twelve deaths and a number of prostrations was reported. The temperature at 8 p. m. was 91 degrees. In Kansas and Missouri showers brought some relief.

While these cities were suffering Chicago and Cleveland were comfortable at 76 and 78 and Buffalo was cool at 70. Other cities in the Middle West were favored by temperatures not extreme for the season.

Three deaths and as many prostrations were caused by the heat at St. Louis. The government thermometer registered 102 degrees in the shade at 3:30 p. m., one degree above the year's record.

WIFE KILLS LAZY HUSBAND

He Forced Her to Plow While He Drank.

Oakland, Cal., July 19.—That she slew her husband because he forced her to plow and do other heavy work on his farm, was the confession made to District Attorney Hines by Mrs. Mary de Valle. Manuel de Valle, the husband, was found shot to death in his home near Irvington.

"I am glad he is dead," Mrs. de Valle told Hines. "He had abused me for fifteen years. I always had to do the plowing, pitch the hay and do other heavy work. He drank constantly. He caught me by the feet and threw me bodily out of the house. I went to a hay stack and slept until morning, then I returned to the house, got a pistol and shot him."

EMPTY TWO COUNTY JAILS

Prisoners to Work on Roads Almost Without Guards.

Kansas City, July 19.—The two Jackson county jails—the one here and the one in Independence—are to be vacated of all able-bodied prisoners through the remainder of the summer.

The county court decided to give the 145 men in its jails a better chance for moral and physical regeneration. They are to be put to work building and repairing county highways, practically without guards and on an honor system of good behavior.

Wealthy Iowan Shoots Self.

Corning, Ia., July 19.—Joseph Sullivan, a prosperous farmer, living near here, committed suicide by shooting himself. He is supposed to have been demented. A widow and four children survive him.

SNAKE IN HOSE.

New York, July 19.—After tackling several firemen and biting one, a four-foot snake that had dropped from a fire hose hung to dry was killed by "Smoke," the company's feline mascot.

SUBSTITUTE FOR

STATION SAFE IS CRACKED

Collection of Rare Coins and $30 in Cash Taken at Tower City.

Tower City, N. D., July 19.—The safe in the Northern Pacific station here was blown, the yegmen securing only $30 for their trouble, in addition to a collection of rare coins, valued at about $50. Insurance policies, and abstracts, taken from the safe, were found a short distance away. The job was evidently the work of experienced men.

Cook Jumps Into River.

Iowa Falls, Ia., July 19.—Frank Hackett, a cook, fifty years old, committed suicide by jumping into the Iowa river. A widow survives.

Answered.

Bishop Goodman was one day addressing a Sunday school when he said in a most expressive way: "And now, children, let me tell you a very sad fact. In Africa there are 10,000,000 square miles of territory without a single Sunday school where little boys and girls can spend their Sundays. Now, what should we all try and save up our money and do?"

And the class, as one voice, replied in ecstatic unison, "Go to Africa!"—Exchange.

Democrats Are Divided Over Measure.

FARM LOAN PLAN IS UP

Differences Are More Pronounced as Consideration Progresses—No Decision Reached on Wingo's Proposition Relative to Interlocking Directorates.

Washington, July 19.—Differences between the Democratic members of the house committee on banking and currency are growing more pronounced as consideration of the Owen-Glass administration currency bill progresses and prospects are that not only will the committee have difficulty in reporting the measure next week, but it is probable that a strong support will be mustered for a substitute bill being drafted by a member of the committee with the assistance of Representative Henry, chairman of the rules committee of the house.

Indications when the committee adjourned were that the radicals and conservatives will have their most serious clashes next week.

Representative Wingo's proposition to prevent interlocking directorates and the section devoted to farm land credit are two important features which the committee has had before it and to which it has given much consideration without nearing a final decision.

Farm Loan Plan Up.

The section of the bill which would permit national banks, other than those situated in reserve cities to make loans on improved and unencumbered farm land for a period not exceeding nine months and for an amount not in excess of 50 per cent of the actual value of the property occupied most of the committee's attention.

This provision requires that the property on which the loan is made shall be located in the federal reserve district of the bank making the loan and stipulates that the aggregate of such loans shall not exceed 25 per cent of the capital and surplus of the bank making the loans, nor more than 50 per cent of its time deposits.

It also gives the federal reserve board the right to add to the list of cities in which the banks shall be prohibited from making such farm loans.

Several of the conservatives said there is a demand for this farm loan provision, while others urged that the banks should be permitted to make similar loans on city real estate.

To this latter proposition the objection raised was that there have been no requests for such a provision from any banks and that it would be unwise to legislate on a proposition for which there appeared to be no demand. No action was taken on the farm loan section.

DANIELS' SPEECH
STARTS RIOT

Sailors, Aided by Civilians, Destroy Property.

WAR SECRETARY IS BITTER

Attacks Red Flag and Its Adherents in Speech at Seattle—Dines on Flagship While Mob Raids Properties of Socialists and Industrial Workers.

Seattle, Wash., July 19.—Sailors and marines from the United States Pacific reserve fleet at anchor here and 100 civilians sacked Socialist and Industrial Workers of the World headquarters here while Secretary of the Navy Daniels was dining with Admiral Reynolds on the latter's flagship.

The riot is said to have been inspired partly by a denunciation of the red flag made by Secretary Daniels in an address at a banquet at the Rainier club.

After storming the uptown headquarters of the Industrial Workers, the rioters attacked the big headquarters on Washington street in the southern part of the city. The contents of the building were dragged into the street and a bonfire made of them. While the disorder was in progress, policemen made mild efforts to persuade the rioters to disperse.

An attack then was made on Socialist headquarters. Furniture was dragged into the street and destroyed. Socialist literature was stamped upon and the building was decorated with small American flags.

By this time word of the disorders had reached officers of the fleet and a provost guard was started ashore in cutters to arrest all men ashore.

Daniels Attacks Mayor Cottrell. "The red flag has no place in this country," Secretary Daniels declared, "and believers in it have no place in this country. A mayor who does not enforce the law against the red flag is not fit to hold office, and people who believe in the red flag should be driven from the country."

Word was passed about the street that the secretary had made an address devoted to the two flags, and had urged that all believers in the red flag be driven out of the country. A wrecking party of about a dozen men, aided by several members of the Washington naval militia and by about 100 young civilians, who made most of the noise, started out.

Waving United States flags the storming party swooped down on a cart news stand of a Socialist at the busiest corner of the city. The cart was broken to splinters in a moment and the big stock of Socialist papers and magazines strewn in the street and jumped upon.

The mob proceeded to the Socialist headquarters, smashed in the plate glass front and nailed American flags on the front of the building.

Two policemen smiled complacently upon the wreckers. The sailors started to drag the furniture and books into the street, but the policemen stopped them.

Another self-appointed leader led the party toward an old church which had just been vacated by the Moderates. As the naval men were crossing an intersecting street they were overhauled by an automobile full of policemen, headed by a captain who told the sailors that if they did not disperse he would arrest every one of them.

The policemen, by maneuvering, separated the men in uniform and scattered them. No handling of them was necessary. The men shouted to the police:

"Your mayor won't do anything to protect the flag, so we are saving your city."

A young civilian who had been endeavoring to incite the sailors kept shouting to them to "Go and get Mayor Cottrell." No arrests were made.

During the administration of Mayor George Cottrell all street orators have been given full license to speak as long and loudly as they chose, provided they did not block traffic or display the red flag.

I. W. W. Riot in Portland.

Portland, Ore., July 19.—The police were called out to quell an Industrial Workers of the World riot started in the Park block. The trouble was due to the attempt of Sheriff Wood to break up a meeting of Industrial Workers. Police helped him arrest five ringleaders.

After striking the water Chapman's body lodged against two projections of rock, and this undoubtedly saved him from almost instant death.

When the cry went up that a man was in the water, John Hughes and Thomas S. Winders of Niagara Falls, Thomas D. Thomas of Toronto and a fourth man, who did not give his name, leaped over the railing.

The unidentified man waded several feet, but could not reach Chapman, Hughes, Winders and Thomas then formed a chain from the iron fence, and clinging to the unknown man's hand enabled him to reach Chapman.

Twice the man at the end of the chain was swept from his feet, but he clung to his burden, and the united efforts of the man nearest, who had better footing, finally swung the two of them out of the grasp of the current.

Chapman was unconscious for more than an hour after being taken ashore. Relatives said he was subject to fits and undoubtedly was stricken while sitting on the railing.

THOUGHT MASONS AFTER HIM

Suicide Believed They Sought Vengeance.

Chicago, July 19.—A remarkable story of the latter years of the retired packer, Kossuth H. Bell, who committed suicide here recently, was told to a coroner's jury here by his widow, Mrs. Emma M. Bell, from whom the decedent separated three years ago.

About five years ago, Mrs. Bell related, her husband became involved with a married woman whose husband was a Mason. When Bell, himself an active Mason, learned this, he worried until his mind became affected and he thought that the Masons were pursuing him.

WILL NAME CONSULS SOON

More Nominations to Demonstrate Wilson's Use of Civil Service.

Washington, July 19.—A large number of nominations of consular officers will be transmitted to the senate in the course of a few days.

The list will include many of the names contained in the slate which failed of confirmation at the close of the Taft administration.

It is said this list will be the first demonstration of the purpose of President Wilson to continue civil service in consular service.

SENATORIAL RIVALS.

From several states come senators who are rivals politically, and the result is that they watch each other carefully. When one gets a little advertising the other gets busy and adds to his reputation. When one enters a debate the other tries to get in on the same subject. It is an interesting game and means that the state gets the very best there is in their senators.

Keeping Executive Secrets.

For twenty years Tom Dawson was connected with a news organization, and his most distasteful and important work was getting the executive session secrets and publishing them. Now he is executive clerk of the senate. He must attend all executive sessions and keep the records.

Many newspaper men have been wondering how it seems to Dawson to watch proceedings which he had to get by "grapevine" in the days gone by.

"I'll bet Tom Dawson can do those sessions with his eyes shut," said one man. "He's been getting that stuff so long it must come natural to him."

Laziness.

Laziness is the deadliest of all diseases, for the disease it prevents one from taking the remedy.

CURRENCY BILL
TO FOLLOW TARIFF

Money Legislation Delay Due to Lack of Information.

SENATORS MUST STUDY UP.

Division in House Banking and Currency Committee Recalls Days of Chairman Walker of Massachusetts. Colonel Edwards' Experience With the Ghosts of Statuary Hall.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, July 19.—[Special.]—Currency legislation next November or December is the meaning of the action by the senate banking and currency committee in postponing consideration of the pending bill until after the tariff bill has passed the senate. The ostensible reason for postponement is that the senators who are members of the committee want to participate in the tariff debate, which is natural, but there is also the further fact that many senators "shy" at currency legislation.

They are in doubt. They want information and will grope about for a time trying to find out what should be done. They will have an opportunity to study the subject during the tariff debate, as it is not expected that the senators will remain in the chamber during the long speeches.

Walker Recalled.

The division in the house banking and currency committee reminds one of the Aldrich-Vreeland bill, the only currency measure that has passed in years, had to come from outside that committee. The members could not agree on anything. Years ago John H. Walker of Massachusetts was chairman of the committee, then numbering seventeen members, and worked hard to get a bill agreed upon and reported.

But the same differences of opinion as have existed and now exist prevented anything from being done. One day Walker stepped into the committee room, and the other sixteen members were seated at the table. He glared at them for an instant and remarked: "Sixteen asses; sixteen unmitigated asses," then adding, after a pause, "And the chairman is a greater ass than all for trying to accomplish anything with such material!"

His Last Tariff Experience.

Colonel Edwards, one of the oldest doorkeepers of the senate, was requisitioned for duty during the long caucus on the tariff bill, but he says that was easy compared with the last Democratic bill. He was then the confidential employee of Senator Vest and handled everything for that senator while the subcommittee worked on the Wilson bill.

"We used to be up in a little room near the dome," said Colonel Edwards, "until 3 o'clock in the morning. There was no one about except Tom Dawson of the Associated Press and Frank Whitehead of the United Press, myself and the ghosts of the capitol. I went over one night to look at the dead men." (The colonel referred to the statues in statuary hall.) "The lightning was flashing, and I found all those fellows staring at me. It made my flesh creep. I didn't go there any more."

"Homer Nods."

Senator Bacon, the most dignified, the most punctilious, the greatest stickler for senatorial decorum, was discussing a bill and in expressing his amazement that such a measure should be presented said, "It completely knocked me off my pins."

"Did the senator say 'pins'?" inquired Senator Lewis, with an incredulous air. And Bacon acknowledged that his surprise had led him to use improper language.

Lane's Letters.

Much time does Senator Lane devote to letter writing. He writes letters to everybody he knows and answers all his correspondence. At first he thought his secretary might write some of the letters, but he tore up a bunch after the first trial because they did not have the personal twist which he likes to give them. He wants the receiver of the letter to know that Lane of Oregon was on the job when it was written.

Empty Two County Jails

Prisoners to Work on Roads Almost Without Guards.

Kansas City, July 19.—The two Jackson county jails—the one here and the one in Independence—are to be vacated of all able-bodied prisoners through the remainder of the summer.

The county court decided to give the 145 men in its jails a better chance for moral and physical regeneration. They are to be put to work building and repairing county highways, practically without guards and on an honor system of good behavior.

Wealthy Iowan Shoots Self.

Corning, Ia., July 19.—Joseph Sullivan, a prosperous farmer, living near here, committed suicide by shooting himself. He is supposed to have been demented. A widow and four children survive him.

SNAKE IN HOSE.

New York, July 19.—After tackling several firemen and biting one, a four-foot snake that had dropped from a fire hose hung to dry was killed by "Smoke," the company's feline mascot.

SENATOR BRISTOW.

Started Hot Debate in Senate Chamber.

Charges that Senator Bristow of Kansas was willing to accept a federal position and work only half time at it featured the debate in the senate over Secretary Bryan's policy of lecturing to add to his income.

HEAT KILLS MANY
IN CENTRAL STATES

Twelve Dead in Louisville and Three at St. Louis.

Chicago, July 19.—The heat wave over the Central West has been relieved in many sections. While some cities sweltered in the hundreds, others were refreshed by moderate temperatures. Joplin, Mo., with 106, was the hottest city. Louisville, Ky., and Arkansas City, Kan., suffered at 104, while St. Louis and Evansville, Ind., registered 102.

There was little refreshment for Evansville apparently, the thermometer standing at 96. St. Louis faced a hot night at 88. Medicine Hat, Can., reputed source of cold waves, was 96.

Suffering was intense at Louisville, Ky., where extreme humidity with twelve deaths and a number of prostrations was reported. The temperature at 8 p. m. was 91 degrees. In Kansas and Missouri showers brought some relief.

While these cities were suffering Chicago and Cleveland were comfortable at 76 and 78 and Buffalo was cool at 70. Other cities in the Middle West were favored by temperatures not extreme for the season.

Three deaths and as many prostrations were caused by the heat at St. Louis. The government thermometer registered 102 degrees in the shade at 3:30 p. m., one degree above the year's record.

WIFE KILLS LAZY HUSBAND

He Forced Her to Plow While He Drank.

Oakland, Cal., July 19.—That she slew her husband because he forced her to plow and do other heavy work on his farm, was the confession made to District Attorney Hines by Mrs. Mary de Valle. Manuel de Valle, the husband, was found shot to death in his home near Irvington.

"I am glad he is dead," Mrs. de Valle told Hines. "He had abused me for fifteen years. I always had to do the plowing, pitch the hay and do other heavy work. He drank constantly. He caught me by the feet and threw me bodily out of the house. I went to a hay stack and slept until morning, then I returned to the house, got a pistol and shot him."

STATION SAFE IS CRACKED

Collection of Rare Coins and $30 in Cash Taken at Tower City.

Tower City, N. D., July 19.—The safe in the Northern Pacific station here was blown, the yeoman securing only $30 for their trouble, in addition to a collection of rare coins, valued at about $50. Insurance policies, and abstracts, taken from the safe, were found a short distance away. The job was evidently the work of experienced men.

Cook Jumps Into River.

Iowa Falls, Ia., July 19.—Frank Hackett, a cook, fifty years old, committed suicide by jumping into the Iowa river. A widow survives.

Answered.

Bishop Goodman was one day addressing a Sunday school when he said in a most expressive way: "And now, children, let me tell you a very sad fact. In Africa there are 10,000,000 square miles of territory without a single Sunday school where little boys and girls can spend their Sundays. Now, what should we all try and save up our money and do?"

And the class, as one voice, replied in ecstatic unison, "Go to Africa!"—Exchange.

Democrats Are Divided Over Measure.

FARM LOAN PLAN IS UP

Differences Are More Pronounced as Consideration Progresses—No Decision Reached on Wingo's Proposition Relative to Interlocking Directorates.

Washington, July 19.—Differences between the Democratic members of the house committee on banking and currency are growing more pronounced as consideration of the Owen-Glass administration currency bill progresses and prospects are that not only will the committee have difficulty in reporting the measure next week, but it is probable that a strong support will be mustered for a substitute bill being drafted by a member of the committee with the assistance of Representative Henry, chairman of the rules committee of the house.

Indications when the committee adjourned were that the radicals and conservatives will have their most serious clashes next week.

Representative Wingo's proposition to prevent interlocking directorates and the section devoted to farm land credit are two important features which the committee has had before it and to which it has given much consideration without nearing a final decision.

Farm Loan Plan Up.

The section of the bill which would permit national banks, other than those situated in reserve cities to make loans on improved and unencumbered farm land for a period not exceeding nine months and for an amount not in excess of 50 per cent of the actual value of the property occupied most of the committee's attention.

This provision requires that the property on which the loan is made shall be located in the federal reserve district of the bank making the loan and stipulates that the aggregate of such loans shall not exceed 25 per cent of the capital and surplus of the bank making the loans, nor more than 50 per cent of its time deposits.

It also gives the federal reserve board the right to add to the list of cities in which the banks shall be prohibited from making such farm loans.

Several of the conservatives said there is a demand for this farm loan provision, while others urged that the banks should be permitted to make similar loans on city real estate.

To this latter proposition the objection raised was that there have been no requests for such a provision from any banks and that it would be unwise to legislate on a proposition for which there appeared to be no demand. No action was taken on the farm loan section.

New Grain Rates Announced.

Bozeman, Mont., July 19.—The new rate on grain from Bozeman to Minneapolis is announced at 30 cents a hundred, in place of 35 cents. This rate was agreed upon between the state railway commission of Montana and representatives of the Northern Pacific and Milwaukee roads, at a conference, after it was known that the Montana commission was preparing to enter formal complaints with the interstate commerce commission concerning rates on Montana grain for the Minneapolis and Seattle markets.

USE MUCH LOGGING TIMBER

Some Interesting Information Regarding Timber Used in the Cuyuna Range Iron Mines

An interesting feature of Forest
Ranger Eisenach's forthcoming report to the state forester, is the chapter devoted to the timber annually used by the mines of the Cuyuna range, which includes the Barrows,
Thompson, Armour No. 1, Armour No.
2, Kennedy, Cuyuna-Duluth and Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mines, says the Atlantic Age.

Of logging timber the mines at present use jack pine, tamarack, cedar and spruce, of which 3,500 cords of the dimension 6x8x4, or 192 cubic feet to the cord are used. This timber has an average value of $5.50 per cord, making the value of the annual consumption about $19,250.

Of running timber, not including sawn lumber, 1,050,000 lineal feet of tamarack, spruce, pine, jack pine, birch, ash and maple are used, having a value of $48,000.

Short ties, used in mining operations are of tamarack and spruce, and of this 8-foot stuff 10,000 pieces are used annually, having a value of about $1,000. This brings the total value of all timber used to $68,250.

Commenting in his report on the timber situation Ranger Eisenach says:

"The timber question will be a serious one in the future for the mines on the Cuyuna range on account of the scarcity of suitable material at close range, making it necessary to ship in timber at high cost, or use undesirable timber such as jack pine which is handy."

ABOUT THE STATE

News of Especial Interest to Minnesota Readers.

ST. PAUL PIONEER IS DEAD

Robert A. Smith, for Fifteen Years Mayor of That City, Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Former Mayor Robert A. Smith, one of the most prominent pioneers of St. Paul, both in politics and business, is dead. Mrs. C. W. Copley, his daughter, was the only one present at his bedside when the end came. Although he had been falling rapidly for several days he rallied and his death later came very suddenly. It was due to exhaustion, caused by his extreme age and the weakening effects of an attack of pneumonia from which he was just recovering. He was eighty-five years of age, was mayor of St. Paul five terms and county commissioner at the time of his death.

The death of Robert A. Smith removes a man who spent half a century in public service. For three years he was auditor of Warlock county, Ind.; for three years he was secretary to Willis A. Gorman, territorial governor of Minnesota, which included the functions of territorial librarian. Following this he was for twelve years treasurer of Ramsey county, and three years he represented the residents of the old Third ward in the city council. As representative in the legislature he served two years, while to this must be added four years as state senator. A similar term was spent as the postmaster of St. Paul. And, finally, Robert A. Smith was mayor of St. Paul for fifteen years.

His two defeats were for mayor and lieutenant governor. His only defeat at the hands of St. Paul voters came in 1892. Although in his defeat for the office of lieutenant governor, however, he carried Ramsey county, while his running mate for governor lost the county by over 1,000 votes.

HOUSE KILLS TONNAGE TAX

Action Is Final in Present Minnesota Legislature.

The tonnage tax bill was defeated in the lower house of the legislature by a vote of 61 to 55, but not without a debate. Tonnage tax cannot come up again at this session of the legislature. It has been throttled in the house and as it is a measure providing for state revenue it cannot be introduced in the senate. The bill provided for a graduated tax per ton of iron ore mined in the state.

Without a dissenting voice the senate passed the Wallace-Fosseen bill, making property owners responsible for use of buildings for immoral purposes. Under the provision of the Wallace-Fosseen bill the property owner is made liable to civil suit and on conviction is subject to a fine of $300 and the property to be vacated for twelve months.

The house by a vote of 84 to 4 passed a bill by C. N. Orr proposing an amendment to the constitution increasing the membership of the supreme bench from five to seven.

By a vote of 62 to 12 the house recommended for passage the H. H. Dunn anti-trust bill, after voting down an amendment by Thomas Kneeland to exempt labor unions from the broad provisions of the bill.

WILL REMAIN IN HARNESS

J. J. Hill Has Much Work to Do Before He Retires.

"I have still about five and a half years of work before me. When I have finished that I'll be eighty years old, and then I guess I can find something else to do."

James J. Hill of St. Paul so declared in an interview in New York city. He will be seventy-five next September.

"But you have worked so hard for more than forty years," it was suggested, "that your friends thought when you withdrew from active railroad work you would lay off and enjoy a long rest."

"Rest can only be enjoyed after a full day's work," quickly replied the empire builder of the Northwest. "Work never kills anybody. It is worry. And I don't worry."

Speaking of the business situation, Mr. Hill said:

"The business of the country is on a sound basis. I see nothing ahead of a serious or menacing character."

SCHOOL OF MINES BURNS

Costly Blaze at the University of Minnesota.

The building of the school of mines at the state university at Minneapolis was almost totally destroyed by fire. The loss will be about $97,700, of which $66,000 is covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is believed to have been wiring between the first and second floors. Eighteen Minneapolis fire companies answered the call before the blaze was well under control. The smelting building was saved by a narrow margin.

Her Postscript.

"Why does a woman always add a postscript to her letter?"

"Well," answered the ungallant wretch, "she probably figures out in her own mind what her letter has made you think and then tries to have the last word."

The Demure Thing.

Edith: "You haven't seen my engagement ring yet, have you? Marie—I don't know, dear. Who's the man?"—Boston Transcript.

HE CAUGHT THE KHEDIVE.

A Breezy American Who Made the Most of His Opportunity.

When E. Alexander Powell was the consular representative of the United States at Alexandria he received a call one morning from the president of an American concern engaged in the manufacture of agricultural and well drilling machinery. This man explained that he was passing through Egypt and asked if it would be possible to obtain an audience with the khedive. In "The Last Frontier" Mr. Powell gives an amusing account of the interview.

Agriculture and its attendant problems of irrigation and fertilization constitute the sole hobby and amusement of the khedive. He is consequently a ready and liberal purchaser of all improved types of agricultural machinery, which he puts to practical use on his great estates. The request of my compatriot was duly transmitted to the grand master of ceremonies, and shortly thereafter a reply reached me that named the day and hour when his highness would receive us at the palace of Ras-el-Tin.

Frock coated and top hatted we drove to the palace on the day appointed, were received by the officials of the household and shown into the audience room, where his highness stood awaiting us. After a cordial greeting the khedive drew me down beside him on a small sofa and motioned to my companion to take a chair opposite us.

"It gives me particular pleasure," I began, "to present Mr. K. to your highness, as he is an authority on agricultural machinery, a subject in which your highness is, I know, much interested."

"Say, khedive," exclaimed my fellow countryman, suddenly leaning forward and emphasizing every sentence by wagging his finger under the khedive's august nose, "I've got the nicest little proposition in well drilling machinery that ever struck this burg, and if you don't jump at the chance to get in on the ground floor then all I've got to say is that you're throwing away the chance of your lifetime!"

The khedive, being naturally quite unaccustomed to this form of verbal assault and still more unaccustomed to having any one waggle a finger under his nose, at first drew back laughingly. Then the humor of the situation dawned upon him, and as the river of talk, which is one of the chief reliances of the trained American salesman, flowed steadily on he became interested in spite of himself. Now and then he interjected a pertinent question and ended the audience by giving the American an order for several thousand dollars' worth of American machinery, which, when I last heard of it, was giving excellent satisfaction on the royal farms.

Well, it is a Good Motto.

A Sunday school teacher, speaking to her pupils on moral cleanliness, offered a prize for the best written or printed motto that would teach the lesson of personal purity.

"Remember," she said, "that the motto must bear especially on the necessity for inward cleanliness—the purity of a heart as pure and spotless as polished gold."

Last Sunday one of the smallest of the boys handed in a placard printed in big black letters.

"Where did you get this?" the teacher asked.

"Swiped it this morning off Tony's bootblack stand outside the corner barroom."

The motto read: "Shine Inside."—New York Sun.

Adverbs.

In English speech the words that sin most against clear expression are adverbs. Thus under stress of dire need you may say, "Come here, quick!" or "Come here quickly!" The former is theoretically incorrect, but it carries the idea. The latter is theoretically correct, but it lacks force. Adverbs are poor things compared with adjectives. Indeed, if an anti-adverb society should ever be organized I desire to record here and now an application for membership.—Ellwood Hendrick in Atlantic.

To Identify the Corpse.

In the blanks which life insurance companies provide their medical examiners for use in recording the data of the examination of the applicant for insurance they provide a space for personal marks which may be used to identify the insured after death. One company recently received a report from an examining physician with the following in the identification blank: "He has a strong Cornish accent."—Lippincott's.

Obeying the Law.

A small town in Mississippi passed a law that no wheelbarrows should be allowed on the sidewalks in the business portion of the city. Soon after the law was passed one Saturday, which is the busiest day of the week, while the streets were crowded, a negro came along the main street trundling a wheelbarrow filled with groceries. The city marshal stopped him, telling him he was under arrest for pushing his wheelbarrow on the street. The negro looked at the officer for a moment, and then, picking up his little girl, who was walking by his side, he placed her upon the top of the groceries and, turning to the officer, said:

"Go on, white man. Dis here ain't no wheelbarrow. Dis is a baby carriage."—New York Times.

With and at a Will.

A drill sergeant was drilling the recruit squad in the use of the rifle. Everything went smoothly until blank cartridges were distributed. The recruits were instructed to load their pieces and stand at the "ready," and then the sergeant gave the command:

"Fire at will!"

Private Dunn was puzzled. He lowered his gun.

"Which one is Will?" he asked.—New York Post.

He Listened to All.

Fontenelle listened to everything, and he offered no one by disputing anything. At the close of his life he was asked the secret of his success, and he replied that it was by observing two maxims, "Everybody may be right" and "Everything may be so."

OLD FLIRTATION

BY FRENCH DUKE

Troubles of Orleans Family Recall an Escapade.

COUNT WAS SCANDALIZED.

Young Frenchmen in America Visited Pretty Virginia Girls, Causing Head of House of Bourbon Much Mortification—How Flirtation Started.

Richmond, Va.—Recent cablegrams from Brussels setting forth the escapades of the Duke of Orleans and the duchess' suit for separation recall an incident in his career in Richmond twenty years ago.

One bright spring morning in 1893 something of a furor was created among the passengers on the little river steamer that plied between Norfolk and Richmond when they learned the identity of three distinguished personages aboard. They were traveling incognito, but some one recognized them as the Count of Paris, his son, the Duke of Orleans, and his nephew, Prince Henry of Orleans. The elder had come over to revisit battlefields on and near the James river, where he had figured in 1862 when on the staff, with his brother, of General McClellan of the Union army. The count was revising his book on civil war and desired a fresh view of locale and atmosphere. They had visited Yorktown and Williamsburg, in which battles he had taken part, and the itinerary was to take them to Gaines' Mills and Fair Oaks, where he had fought gallantly.

His son and his nephew were handsome, dashing young fellows, who had seen service and hunted tigers in India. The old count pointed out and expatiated on interesting places along the historic route, scenes of notable engagements in which he had figured thirty years before, and became so absorbed in the memories that he did not discover the keener interest manifested by the young noblemen in two pretty sisters of Richmond, one a blond and the other a brunette, vivacious and fond of admiration.

Misses Ophelia and Louise Bullington betrayed sufficient interest to embolden young Evan Chesterman, a feature writer, to offer to introduce them. Not just then, though; the old count was watching the youngsters with rigorous solicitude. He was stern, proud, a stickler for etiquette, never forgetting that he was undisputed head of the house of Bourbon.

Before the boat reached Richmond, however, the plans were arranged by Chesterman for the party to call on the girls at home that evening. Weary from travel, the count was easily persuaded to retire early and was tucked away. His room at the old Lexington hotel was across the hall from that of the duke and prince. Nine o'clock found him snoring, while a cab with drawn curtains was hurrying the party of three to spend the evening with the beauty sisters. Both the young noblemen spoke good English, and a jolly party it was, with clever stories and love songs dashed off in a glass of wine and the spice of adventure.

When the party returned at midnight the count awoke to learn the truth, and things were blue around the hotel. Catching them sneaking into their rooms, he thundered his censure and threatened to disinheritor the duke for so far forgetting himself as to visit strange women out of his station and start gossip.

"Picture the horrid American newspapers out with your escapades in ghastly headlines!" he growled. "Ugh! I'm most shocked and mortified. And you, sir, heir and head of the great house of Bourbon!"

Room at the Top.

Once upon a time there was a man who went a-courting, and he courted a widow. And the widow thought well of him; but, behold, she refused to accept a second chance!

"But why will you not marry me?" persisted the suitor.

"I love my first poor, dear husband from the bottom of my heart!" wept the widow.

"But," persisted the man, "ain't there always room at the top?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TO CELEBRATE THE POTLATCH

Anniversary of Discovery of Gold in the Klondike.

When the ship Portland arrives in Seattle, Wash., on July 17, the Seattle golden potlatch will get in full swing. It has been just sixteen years since gold was first discovered in the Klondike region, and this annual celebration is held commemorating the event. In July, 1897, the ship Portland steamed into Elliott bay, laden with the yellow gold dust which had been obtained at El Dorado in the Klondike.

dike. The men who had found this gold settled in Portland.

Assisting in the celebration this year there will be the tyee of the potlatch and his sitkum chiefs and shamans.

The word potlatch is taken from the quaint jargon of the Chinook and means a gift—something freely given. The Indians of Washington's waterways and the Alaskan coast expanded the meaning of the word, so that potlatch came to mean a feast, or better a festival given by the chief of a tribe which lasted until the host had given away all of his earthly possessions to the various guests who had been invited to participate in the ceremony. At the end he was broke, but had experienced the time of his life and was respected by all other members of his tribe until his dying day.

The Seattle celebration this year begins on July 16 and will continue for three days.

CHURCH ON BOARD WALK.

Without Choir, Officers or Members, Consists of Preacher and Pianist.

Situated right in the center of one of the greatest playgrounds and pleasure resorts in America, where hundreds of thousands of visitors go every year, there is a church which is unique in that it has no choir, no officers, no members and no collection plate. It has no house of worship, all of its meetings being held in a theater. A pianist and a preacher compose the entire outfit.

This church is located on the board walk in Atlantic City, and Robert Arthur Elwood is the founder and preacher. He does not call himself the Rev. Robert Arthur Elwood.

The church this year was opened for the fifth consecutive season. Nearly all ways 90 per cent of the congregation is transient. It would seem strange that pleasure seekers who visit Atlantic City would be tempted by a church, but nevertheless at each service there is a large audience. Few persons ever attend more than one service. Once when the preacher took a census of his congregation he found that practically every country in the civilized world was represented and that nearly every state in the Union had furnished at least one of the persons present. Thus the cosmopolitan character of the audience can be judged.

Oftentimes the Way.

A MYSTERIOUS DESERT.

Weird Tales That Are Told of the "Soul Appalling Gobi."

Slowly we traveled across the great waste of Dzungaria, the "soul appalling Gobi" of some writers, but to us a land of beauty, even if of a somewhat terrifying character, for here more nearly than in any other land is beauty allied to terror.

These silent steppes the natives believe to be the haunts of "genii" and the rendezvous of evil spirits. As a recent writer has said, "The great sandy desert of Gobi has been looked on as the dwelling place of malignant beings from the days of hoary antiquity."

All luckless travelers in this region from the days of Marco Polo onward have recorded strange stories of weird beings that inhabit the depths of the wastes. Mysterious singing and wailing, beating of drums and distant music are said to beguile the traveler and lead him off the track until he is hopelessly lost in the wilderness. A recent Russian explorer gives quite a detailed account of the wild men of the desert.

Listen to the strange story told by Kosloff, who traversed the desert of Dzungaria in its widest part not long ago: "These wild men, the Kiz-Kyks, as they are called, are covered with short wool similar to the fur of a young camel. They have long black hair and black eyes. They are of ordinary size, but rather long legged. They roam the steppe in pairs, and when harassed by man they scream, whistle and snarl as they run away. The native Kirghiz claim to have caught them occasionally, but the captives refuse food and drink and die after a few days."—Wide World Magazine.

WIDOWS IN MADAGASCAR.

Their First Year of Mourning One of Abuse and Misery.

There are no gay widows in Madagascar—not, at least, for one year after the husband has died. In Madagascar, on the death of any man of position, on the day of the funeral the wife is placed in the house, dressed in all her best clothes and wearing her silver ornaments, of which in general she possesses a considerable quantity. There she remains until the rest of the house have returned from the funeral.

As soon as her relatives return they begin to revile her in most abusive language and tell her that it is her fault that she has been stronger than her husband and that she is really the cause of his death. They proceed to tear the ornaments from her ears and neck and arms and give her a coarse cloth and a dish with the foot broken off. Her hair is disheveled, and she is covered with a coarse mat, under which she remains all day long and can only leave at night. And she may not speak to any one who goes into the house. Neither is she allowed to wash her face or hands, but only the tips of her fingers.

All this the Madagascar widow endures for a year, or at least for eight months, and even when this is over her time for mourning is not ended for a considerable period.

The last straw consists of the fact that she is not allowed to go home to her own relatives until she has been first divorced by her husband's family. —Chicago Tribune.

ABOUT THE STATE

News of Especial Interest to Minnesota Readers.

ST. PAUL PIONEER IS DEAD

Robert A. Smith, for Fifteen Years Mayor of That City, Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Former Mayor Robert A. Smith, one of the most prominent pioneers of St. Paul, both in politics and business, is dead. Mrs. C. W. Copley, his daughter, was the only one present at his bedside when the end came. Although he had been failing rapidly for several days he rallied and his death later came very suddenly. It was due to exhaustion, caused by his extreme age and the weakening effects of an attack of pneumonia from which he was just recovering. He was eighty-five years of age, was mayor of St. Paul five terms and county commissioner at the time of his death.

The death of Robert A. Smith removes a man who spent half a century in public service. For three years he was auditor of Warwick county, Ind.; for three years he was secretary to Willis A. Gorman, territorial governor of Minnesota, which included the functions of territorial librarian. Following this he was for twelve years treasurer of Ramsey county, and three years he represented the residents of the old Third ward in the city council. As representative in the legislature he served two years, while to this must be added four years as state senator. A similar term was spent as the postmaster of St. Paul. And, finally, Robert A. Smith was mayor of St. Paul for fifteen years.

His two defeats were for mayor and lieutenant governor. His only defeat at the hands of St. Paul voters came in 1892. Although in his defeat for the office of lieutenant governor, however, he carried Ramsey county, while his running mate for governor lost the county by over 1,000 votes.

HOUSE KILLS TONNAGE TAX

Action Is Final in Present Minnesota Legislature.

The tonnage tax bill was defeated in the lower house of the legislature by a vote of 61 to 55, but not without a debate. Tonnage tax cannot come up again at this session of the legislature. It has been throttled in the house and as it is a measure providing for state revenue it cannot be introduced in the senate. The bill provided for a graduated tax per ton of iron ore mined in the state.

Without a dissenting voice the senate passed the Wallace-Fosseen bill, making property owners responsible for use of buildings for immoral purposes. Under the provision of the Wallace-Fosseen bill the property owner is made liable to civil suit and on conviction is subject to a fine of $300 and the property to be vacated for twelve months.

The house by a vote of 84 to 4 passed a bill by C. N. Orr proposing an amendment to the constitution increasing the membership of the supreme bench from five to seven.

By a vote of 62 to 12 the house recommended for passage the H. H. Dunn anti-trust bill, after voting down an amendment by Thomas Kneeland to exempt labor unions from the broad provisions of the bill.

WILL REMAIN IN HARNESS

J. J. Hill Has Much Work to Do Before He Retires.

"I have still about five and a half years of work before me. When I have finished that I'll be eighty years old, and then I guess I can find something else to do."

James J. Hill of St. Paul so declared in an interview in New York city. He will be seventy-five next September.

"But you have worked so hard for more than forty years," it was suggested, "that your friends thought when you withdrew from active railroad work you would lay off and enjoy a long rest."

"Rest can only be enjoyed after a full day's work," quickly replied the empire builder of the Northwest. "Work never kills anybody. It is worry. And I don't worry."

Speaking of the business situation, Mr. Hill said:

"The business of the country is on a sound basis. I see nothing ahead of a serious or menacing character."

SCHOOL OF MINES BURNS

Costly Blaze at the University of Minnesota.

The building of the school of mines at the state university at Minneapolis was almost totally destroyed by fire. The loss will be about $97,700, of which $66,000 is covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is believed to have been wiring between the first and second floors. Eighteen Minneapolis fire companies answered the call before the blaze was well under control. The smelting building was saved by a narrow margin.

ways 90 per cent of the congregation is transient. It would seem strange that pleasure seekers who visit Atlantic City would be tempted by a church, but nevertheless at each service there is a large audience. Few persons ever attend more than one service. Once when the preacher took a census of his congregation he found that practically every country in the civilized world was represented and that nearly every state in the Union had furnished at least one of the persons present. Thus the cosmopolitan character of the audience can be judged.

A MYSTERIOUS DESERT.

Weird Tales That Are Told of the "Soul Appalling Gobi."

Slowly we traveled across the great waste of Dzungaria, the "soul appalling Gobi" of some writers, but to us a land of beauty, even if a somewhat terrifying character, for here more nearly than in any other land is beauty allied to terror.

These silent steppes the natives believe to be the haunts of "genii" and the rendezvous of evil spirits. As a recent writer has said, "The great sandy desert of Gobi has been looked on as the dwelling place of malignant beings from the days of hoary antiquity."

All luckless travelers in this region from the days of Marco Polo onward have recorded strange stories of weird beings that inhabit the depths of the wastes. Mysterious singing and wailing, beating of drums and distant music are said to beguile the traveler and lead him off the track until he is hopelessly lost in the wilderness. A recent Russian explorer gives quite a detailed account of the wild men of the desert.

Listen to the strange story told by Kosloff, who traversed the desert of Dzungaria in its widest part not long ago: "These wild men, the Kiz-Kyks, as they are called, are covered with short wool similar to the fur of a young camel. They have long black hair and black eyes. They are of ordinary size, but rather long legged. They roam the steppes in pairs, and when harassed by man they scream, whistle and snarl as they run away. The native Kirghiz claim to have caught them occasionally, but the captives refuse food and drink and die after a few days."—Wide World Magazine.

WIDOWS IN MADAGASCAR.

Their First Year of Mourning One of Abuse and Misery.

There are no gay widows in Madagascar—not, at least, for one year after the husband has died. In Madagascar, on the death of any man of position, on the day of the funeral the wife is placed in the house, dressed in all her best clothes and wearing her silver ornaments, of which in general she possesses a considerable quantity. There she remains until the rest of the house have returned from the funeral.

As soon as her relatives return they begin to revile her in most abusive language and tell her that it is her fault that she has been stronger than her husband and that she is really the cause of his death. They proceed to tear the ornaments from her ears and neck and arms and give her a coarse cloth and a spoon with a broken handle and a dish with the foot broken off. Her hair is disheveled, and she is covered with a coarse mat, under which she remains all day long and can only leave at night. And she may not speak to any one who goes into the house. Neither is she allowed to wash her face or hands, but only the tips of her fingers.

All this the Madagascar widow endures for a year, or at least for eight months, and even when this is over her time for mourning is not ended for a considerable period.

The last straw consists of the fact that she is not allowed to go home to her own relatives until she has been first divorced by her husband's family. —Chicago Tribune.

STORMY CAREER OF FELIX DIAZ

Leader of Mexican Revolt Has Had a Charmed Life.

DEFEATED MANY TIMES.

Greatly Resembles His Uncle Porfirio in Personality and Deeds—More Liberal in Views Than Former Dictator. Appeals to Native Love of Spectacular—Just Escaped Execution.

City of Mexico.—Colonel Felix Diaz, whose attack on Madero led to General Huerta's election as provisional president, is one of the most remarkable personalities Mexico had ever produced. He is the nephew of Porfirio Diaz, who for more than thirty years was dictator of Mexico. His father was General Felix Diaz, who was slain in 1871 in the revolt of the Diaz faction against President Benito Juarez.

Not only does the younger Diaz physically resemble his banished uncle, but their careers up to the present are remarkably parallel. Admirers of Porfirio Diaz have said that since Richard Coeur de Lion the world has produced no man of so thrilling a personal and military career as "the man of Mexico," as he was called. He was the hero of fifty pitched battles, a leader of the forlorn hope of Mexico against the trained armies of France in the war of the intervention, when Benito Juarez and his capital were being chased from pillar to post.

Felix Diaz, as does his uncle, seems to bear a charmed life. In the six years he was chief of police of the City of Mexico his life was attempted a number of times. The Mexican character is boyish in love of the spectacular. It is a hero worshipping people. The latest exploit of Diaz in escaping from a death cell and suddenly showing himself at the head of an army will appeal to the characteristic trait of a people that love daring.

COLONEL FELIX DIAZ.

whether in the bull ring or on the battlefield, and is likely to contribute the clan the cause might otherwise have wanted.

Temperamentally the younger and the elder Diaz are different. The old dictator, suspicious and intolerant, ruled his people with the "mano ferro," the iron hand. Felix was for a larger measure of personal freedom and more than once incurred his uncle's displeasure by the liberality of his views.

Felix supported his uncle through the Madero revolution, but when the latter triumphed he went under the yoke with good grace. Up to two months before he organized the flashy little revolution that resulted in his capture and the immediate surrender of Vera Cruz he kept his rank of colonel in the regular army.

While serving under Madero he was visited by envoys of disaffected leaders who represented that the dreamer of Nuevo Leon, with none of the ability of Porfirio Diaz, was a worse tyrant than Diaz had ever been. He was assured of the support of the army if he would take the lead in a revolt. When he reached a decision—and he wasn't long about it—he resigned his commission. With the following of Orozco, Zapata and Aguilar promised him, a Diaz once more issued his "pronunciamiento." He proclaimed himself chief of all the rebel forces in Mexico and took possession of the city of Vera Cruz, every federal soldier in the garrison deserting to him, as well as the police, firemen and citizen volunteers.

But the Madero government had been warned, and the loyal troops recaptured Vera Cruz after two hours of fighting and made Diaz prisoner.

The order of the court martial was that Diaz should be shot at sunrise on the morning of Oct. 26. But when the news reached the City of Mexico there was dissension in the cabinet over what course the president should take. The majority, including the president's uncle, Ernesto Madero, the minister of finance, and Gustavo Madero, the president's brother, who was taken prisoner by Diaz, insisted that he be shot. Without deciding just what to do Colonel Diaz was placed in prison at Vera Cruz and later confined in the Santiago prison, from which he escaped.

SUNDAY BALL BILL KILLED

House Committee Tables Measure Prohibiting Sabbath Games.

The Morken bill prohibiting Sunday baseball met its death in the general legislation committee of the lower house of the legislature. Every member of the committee voted to recommend the bill for indefinite postponement.

The house most emphatically killed J. J. Preston's bill prohibiting the employment of persons not native born or naturalized in public work. Mr. Preston tried to amend the bill to include only appointive officers, but while this was pending the bill itself was attacked by G. B. Bjornson and others and a motion to postpone indefinitely was carried by about three to one.

The senate, with only four opposing, adopted a resolution offered Jan. 31 by Senator Ole O. Sageng of Dalton for an investigation of campaign finances in Minnesota, after adopting an amendment offered by Senator O. G. Dale of Madison to include the last three instead of two campaigns.

NINE-HOUR DAY FOR WOMEN

Minnesota House Amends Bill and Then Lays It Over.

The house spent several hours debating the bill by Representative J. J. Preston of St. Paul and L. A. Lydard of Minneapolis, limiting women to eight hours of labor a day. An amendment changing this to nine hours was adopted and the bill was then laid over to permit the drafting of an amendment limiting it to certain occupations, or in some other way exempting country stores and other industries where the work of women is not as onerous as in the stores and shops of the large cities.

After debating proposed amendments to the statewide primary law passed at the 1912 session of the legislature the senate laid the whole matter over until 11 a. m. Friday.

The complete repeal of the law creating the state board of barbers' examiners is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Frank Hopkins of Fairfax.

DEFEATED BY A TIE VOTE

County Option Fails of Passage in Minnesota House.

County option lost in the lower house of the legislature by a tie vote of 59 to 59. If two of the members, who were absent on account of illness, had been in the house the vote would have been 61 against 59. Albert Pfander of New Ulm and W. H. Westcott of West St. Paul, the absentees, are both opposed to county option.

A call of the house brought into the chamber every member except the two who were ill. There was a field day of oratory before the vote was taken. W. J. Bryan, Woodrow Wilson and other national leaders were quoted for or against the bill.

WEALTHY MAN ENDS LIFE

St. Paul Real Estate Operator Commits Suicide.

Elmer K. Miller, a St. Paul real estate operator, who is reputed to be a millionaire, committed suicide in his apartment in the Angus hotel in that city by shooting himself in the throat. The jugular vein was punctured by the bullet and physicians say death must have been instantaneous.

Miller's body was found by a nurse who had gone to his room to attend him. He had been suffering from nervous trouble for some time and ill health resulting in melancholia is assigned as the cause of his suicide. He was forty-two years old.

DEFEATS WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Minnesota Senate Adversely Disposes of Measure.

By taking action suddenly and unexpectedly, at a time when eight members were absent from their seats, the state senate killed woman's suffrage, so far as the present session of the legislature is concerned. With votes to spare a resolution was adopted condemning to death the bill which passed the house a few days ago.

MINNESOTAN BURNED TO DEATH

Stanislaus Wachowiak, twenty-one years of age, was burned to death while asleep in a summer kitchen in the home of John Ostrowski at Winona. The fire was not discovered until the flames burst through the roof and Wachowiak's body was found in the ruins after the blaze had been extinguished.

GASOLINE EXPLOSION FATAL

One child is dead, the mother cannot live, and three other members of Isaac Maustad's family, who live five miles from Drayton, N. D., on the Minnesota side of the Red river, are in a serious condition as a result of the explosion of gasoline that Peter Maustad, twenty years old, poured on a coal fire.

EFFECTIVE REFLECTING

"It is so sudden!" exclaimed the fair haired girl, who had just received a proposal to merge her identity in that of a would be protector. "You must give me time to reflect." "No, no!" retorted the diplomatic young man. "One whose dazzling beauty makes a mirror ashamed of itself should never go into the reflecting business. Let this solitary diamond do the reflecting." And the records of the license clerk show that it was even so.

DEFINING THE OYSTER

"Now," asked the teacher, "who can tell me what an oyster is?" Silence for a moment, while small brows were knit in strained effort at remembrance. Then little Tommy's facial muscles relaxed, and eagerly he raised his hand. "I know!" he triumphantly announced. "An oyster is a fish built like a nut."—Everybody's.

STATE NEWS BITS

Minor Happenings of the Week Throughout Minnesota.

The prices of Stillwater prison binding twine for 1913 have been made by the board of control and the warden as follows: Standard, 500 feet to the pound, 8 1/4 cents; sisal, 600 feet to the pound, 8 1/4 cents; standard manila, 550 feet to the pound, 9 cents; manila, 600 feet to the pound, 10 cents; pure manila, 650 feet to the pound, 11 cents. The prices are higher than last year's, but the spread is not so great as is the difference between the prices of raw material last year as compared with this season.

Since the founding of the Farmers' Institute department of the extension division of the University of Minnesota two years ago about one hundred farmers' clubs have been formed in the various counties of the state and more than 25,000 Minnesota farmers are now meeting monthly or bimonthly to discuss topics of community interest and benefit.

Settlers from Iowa and Illinois are coming into Minnesota at the rate of 200 persons a day, according to statistics in the hands of Dr. S. H. Ward, head of the state live stock and sanitary board. He says the immigrants are farmers with ample capital and are taking up farming on a large scale in all sections of the state.

The Fergus Falls state hospital for the insane has just undertaken typhoid fever vaccination on a scale that has never before been attempted in any institution in the United States. The 1,700 patients and as many of the attendants as desire the treatment are to be vaccinated.

LIFE'S SHADOWS.

Shadows have an important part to play. One of the aids in distinguishing objects is the difference in brightness. If there were no shadows, but only perfectly diffused light of high intensity, it would be hard to see clearly. That is true of the soul's vision as well as that of the body. We long for the undimmed light, and we bemoan the shadows, and yet it is these last that have given us our clearest vision and taught us our correct estimate of ourselves.

THE BAGPIPES.

A bagpipe has three long tubes, or "drones," which possess no fixed notes; a wind chest, sac or lungs inflated by a blowpipe; a chanter, with finger holes for playing the melody. It is an instrument with a small compass of about nine notes, which form no diatonic scale, nor are they accurately tuned to one another. Each note originally possessed a Gaelic name, such as hodroho, hananun, huchan, hiechin, etc., and all the airs, reels, flings, slogans, war marches, hula-chans, strathspeys, laments, pibrochs—etc., were self taught by ear. Now there are two or three book tutors in the market.—London Family Herald.

CRIMES AND MISHAPS.

After being warned not to stand too close to the machinery, according to a statement at the Merchants' Elevator company's office, John Baca, twenty-four years old, a workman in the engine room of the company's elevator at Minneapolis, was caught in a horizontal revolving shaft, about three feet from the floor, whirled around and his body pounded with tremendous violence each time against the floor until terribly mangled.

Two indeterminate sentences with a maximum of thirty years' imprisonment in the state penitentiary at Stillwater, were imposed upon J. P. Tredinnick, former Elevator broker, by Judge Martin Hughes in district court at Hibbing. Tredinnick pleaded guilty to charges in two indictments. One charged forgery in the first degree and the other grand larceny in the first degree.

Becoming suddenly insane while at work on a dam at Coon Rapids, below Anoka, Gus Giles foiled the efforts of fifty men to capture him and with a yell plunged head first in the river through an air hole. The body was not recovered.

The diphtheria and measles epidemic at the agricultural college is under control, according to physicians in charge. The epidemic has proved much more serious than was believed.

DEATHS OF THE WEEK.

To live to the advanced age of eighty-four without having had a sick day and without paying one cent for doctors or medicine was the record of John Casey, one of the old residents of southwestern Minnesota, who died at his home in Murray county. Up to a week ago, when Mr. Casey was forced to take to his bed, it is declared he had never passed a sick day in his life.

Patrick Walsh, aged seventy-nine years, a recluse who lived on a farm near Hazelwood, in the northwestern part of Rice county, was found dead in bed by some neighbors. He apparently had been dead for a week or more. There was nothing in the house to eat except a small piece of cheese, some butter and a few potatoes. His clothes contained $361 in cash.

Miss Zula Rosamond Hart, formerly of Mankato, died Jan. 4 in the Presbyterian hospital connected with the mission school of that denomination at Shanghai, China, from an attack of smallpox. Her body has been cremated and may be returned to Mankato, provided the necessary permission can be secured.

Major Harrison J. Peck of Shakopee is dead at Los Angeles, Cal., of pneumonia, at the age of seventy years. He had been an attorney at Shakopee forty-one years and was county attorney two terms, in the state senate two terms, mayor of Shakopee several years and its present city attorney.

E. S. Bean, aged sixty-five, major of the Thirtieth Minnesota volunteer infantry during the Spanish-American war, was found dead in his room at the Windsor hotel at St. Paul.

Frank E. Smith, a business man of Pine City, was found dead in the western part of town. He had been subject to heart disease for several years.

The senate, with only four opposing, adopted a resolution offered Jan. 31 by Senator Ole O. Sageng of Dalton for an investigation of campaign finances in Minnesota, after adopting an amendment offered by Senator O. G. Dale of Madison to include the last three instead of two campaigns.

NINE-HOUR DAY FOR WOMEN

Minnesota House Amends Bill and Then Lays It Over.

The house spent several hours debating the bill by Representative J. J. Preston of St. Paul and L. A. Lydiard of Minneapolis, limiting women to eight hours of labor a day. An amendment changing this to nine hours was adopted and the bill was then laid over to permit the drafting of an amendment limiting it to certain occupations, or in some other way exempting country stores and other industries where the work of women is not as onerous as in the stores and shops of the large cities.

After debating proposed amendments to the statewide primary law passed at the 1912 session of the legislature the senate laid the whole matter over until 11 a. m. Friday.

The complete repeal of the law creating the state board of barbers' examiners is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Frank Hopkins of Fairfax.

DEFEATED BY A TIE VOTE

County Option Fails of Passage in Minnesota House.

County option lost in the lower house of the legislature by a tie vote of 59 to 59. If two of the members, who were absent on account of illness, had been in the house the vote would have been 61 against 59. Albert Pfander of New Ulm and W. H. Westcott of West St. Paul, the absentees, are both opposed to county option.

A call of the house brought into the chamber every member except the two who were ill. There was a field day of oratory before the vote was taken. W. J. Bryan, Woodrow Wilson and other national leaders were quoted for or against the bill.

WEALTHY MAN ENDS LIFE

St. Paul Real Estate Operator Commits Suicide.

Elmer K. Miller, a St. Paul real estate operator, who is reputed to be a millionaire, committed suicide in his apartments in the Angus hotel in that city by shooting himself in the throat. The jugular vein was punctured by the bullet and physicians say death must have been instantaneous.

Miller's body was found by a nurse who had gone to his room to attend him. He had been suffering from nervous trouble for some time and ill health resulting in melancholia is assigned as the cause of his suicide. He was forty-two years old.

DEFEATS WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Minnesota Senate Adversely Disposes of Measure.

By taking action suddenly and unexpectedly, at a time when eight members were absent from their seats, the state senate killed woman's suffrage, so far as the present session of the legislature is concerned. With votes to spare a resolution was adopted condemning to death the bill which passed the house a few days ago.

MINNESOTAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Stanislaus Wachowiak, twenty-one years of age, was burned to death while asleep in a summer kitchen in the home of John Ostrowski at Winona. The fire was not discovered until the flames burst through the roof and Wachowiak's body was found in the ruins after the blaze had been extinguished.

Gasoline Explosion Fatal.

One child is dead, the mother cannot live, and three other members of Isaac Maurstad's family, who live five miles from Drayton, N. D., on the Minnesota side of the Red river, are in a serious condition as a result of the explosion of gasoline that Peter Maurstad, twenty years old, poured on a coal fire.

Effective Reflecting.

"No, no!" retorted the diplomatic young man. "One whose dazzling beauty makes a mirror ashamed of itself should never go into the reflecting business. Let this solitary diamond do the reflecting."

And the records of the license clerk show that it was even so.

Defining the Oyster.
"Now," asked the teacher, "who can tell me what an oyster is?"

Silence for a moment, while small brows were knit in strained effort at remembrance. Then little Tommy's facial muscles relaxed, and eagerly he raised his hand.

"I know!" he triumphantly announced. "An oyster is a fish built like a nut."—Everybody's.

STATE NEWS BITS

Minor Happenings of the Week Throughout Minnesota.

The prices of Stillwater prison binding twine for 1913 have been made by the board of control and the warden as follows: Standard, 500 feet to the pound, 8 1/2 cents; sisal, 500 feet to the pound, 8 1/2 cents; standard manila, 550 feet to the pound, 9 cents; manila, 600 feet to the pound, 10 cents; pure manila, 650 feet to the pound, 11 cents. The prices are higher than last year's, but the spread is not so great as is the difference between the prices of raw material last year as compared with this season.

Since the founding of the Farmers' Institute department of the extension division of the University of Minnesota two years ago about one hundred farmers' clubs have been formed in the various counties of the state and more than 25,000 Minnesota farmers are now meeting monthly or bimonthly to discuss topics of community interest and benefit.

Settlers from Iowa and Illinois are coming into Minnesota at the rate of 200 persons a day, according to statistics in the hands of Dr. S. H. Ward, head of the state live stock and sanitary board. He says the immigrants are farmers with ample capital and are taking up farming on a large scale in all sections of the state.

The Fergus Falls state hospital for the insane has just undertaken typhoid fever vaccination on a scale that has never before been attempted in any institution in the United States. The 1,700 patients and as many of the attendants as desire the treatment are to be vaccinated.

LIFE'S SHADOWS.

Shadows have an important part to play. One of the aids in distinguishing objects is the difference in brightness. If there were no shadows, but only perfectly diffused light of high intensity, it would be hard to see clearly. That is true of the soul's vision as well as that of the body. We long for the undimmed light, and we bemoan the shadows, and yet it is these last that have given us our clearest vision and taught us our correct estimate of ourselves.

The Bagpipes.

A bagpipe has three long tubes, or "drones," which possess no fixed notes; a wind chest, sac or lungs inflated by a blowpipe; a chanter, with finger holes for playing the melody. It is an instrument with a small compass of about nine notes, which form no diatonic scale, nor are they accurately tuned to one another. Each note originally possessed a Gaelic name, such as hodroho, hananun, huchan, hiechin, etc., and all the airs, reels, flings, slogans, war marches, huilachans, strathspeys, laments, pibrochs—pibrochs—etc., were self taught by ear. Now there are two or three book tutors in the market.—London Family Herald.

DEVELOPMENTS OF WEEK ON RANGE

Description of Cuyuna Range Power Co. Plant—Another Water Power Near Pillager

CUYUNA-DULUTH TO SHIP AUG. 3

Hill Lumber Co. Land in 10-46-29 Turned Over to Jones & Laughlin Interests

Keeping pace with the development of the Cuyuna iron range is the Cuyuna Range Power company which has a water power plant on the Crow Wing river and is developing another near Pillager, six miles to the west. The length of the dam on the Crow Wing river is 400 feet, the width at the base 25 feet and at the top 9 feet, and the average head of water 22 feet, developing 3,000 horsepower. The power house is a building 40 by 60 feet in size, built of cement. It contains two Ellis Chalmers generators of 500 kilowatts each, connected to two Morgan-Smith water turbines of 48 inch diameter, generating 2,200 volts, transformed to 3,500 volts in transformers. A roadway is being built near the dam. In the construction of the dam and power house 12,000 barrels of cement were used. The work was completed within a year, construction commencing in June 1912. Twenty men are employed, with William Strom as foreman.

The Cuyuna Range Power company supplies electric power for lighting and power and heating to Brainerd, Crosby, Cuyuna, Ironton, Deerwood and Riverton and will also shortly include Oreland and Barrows. It furnished the power at the hydraulic mine of the Pittsburgh Steel Ore Co. where the pumps and the sandsuckers are stripping the 45 foot overburden. The company is particularly anxious to demonstrate the saving that can be effected in the use of electrically-driven pumps and is willing to install one at a mine in competition with a steam pump. A steam auxiliary power station is maintained at Deerwood and a gas producer auxiliary was taken over at Brainerd when the company purchased the National Heat, Light & Power company and the Toltz company interests.

The Cuyuna-Duluth mine at Ironton will make its first shipment of ore on August 3 and an excursion to the property will signalize the event. A special train will leave Duluth at 7:30 in the morning. All stockholders of the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs Iron company and their friends have been invited to accompany them on the excursion. The Northern Pacific special train will also visit the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs company property and sufficient time will be given to inspect the mine at this point. The annual meeting of this company will be held at the Lonsdale building in Duluth on August 4 when a board of directors is to be elected and other business attended to.

Heavy rains of the past week have bothered the Pennington pit mine and hindered work there. Water accumulated at various points.

It is rumored that the C. M. Hill Lumber company property in the south half of the northwest quarter and the north half of the southwest quarter of section 10, township 46, range 29 has been turned over to the Jones & Laughlin Co. interests. The property adjoins the Pennington mine to the west.

The shovels of the Rogers, Brown Ore Co. are working at the Armour No. 1 and the Kennedy mines. To date this company has sent from its three mines, the Kennedy at Cuyuna and the Armour No. 1 and the Armour No. 2 near Crosby and Ironton 240,000 tons of ore to the docks and this in turn has been shipped to the furnaces in 41 cargoes via the Great Lakes.

Capt. Lawrey is in charge at the Adams mine at Oreland. A pumping station is at the 225 foot level. Crosscutting to the ore body will soon be commenced. Three shifts of miners are worked. A change has been made at the power house, a new engine and hoist going in and the cable being run in a different direction than when first planned. Additional cottages are being built at Oreland to house the miners, the Range Building company doing the work. Four were recently ordered built.

The Hale-Bradley company is drilling in the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 30, township 47, range 29. Another drill has been placed in Deerwood township in section 16, township 46, range 28. B. Magoffin, Jr., of Deerwood, has been on the Michigan ranges superintending drill work for the C. M. Hill Lumber company.

John Helmer, of Duluth, has bought an island in Farm Island lake and will build a summer home there.

H. L. Nehls, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has bought 1,100 acres of land in southeastern Cass county in the Remer district from F. G. Ladd of Crosby, N. D. and H. E. Dean, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the deal being completed in the offices of M. E. Ryan, of Brainerd. Its mineral value, if any, is unknown.

Of interest on the range has been the recent case in the United States district court before Judge Page Morris where John Brennan sued Thomas Keating, of Deerwood, for $25,000, being for advice alleged to have been given by Brennan to Keating. As witnesses Keating had some of the most prominent mining men on the range, including Gaylord & Guith, A. J. McLennan, George H. Crosby, M. J. Haley and Will Harrison. The judge dismissed the case, the costs were assessed against the plaintiff and Keating draws $10 a day for the time he spent at court.

The Barrows mine of the Virginia Ore Mining company at Barrows has the water in check and is now handling the natural flow. A new pumping station is being cut. There is some talk of a shaft south of Barrows. The petition for the incorporation of the townsite was refused by the county commissioners. Towers people contemplate drilling north of Barrows.

The Vermes-Cuyuna Mining & Development company has received good ore from its 11th hole, the exploration work being conducted by the Helmer Exploration company.

The Cuyuna Iron & Manganese Co. is drilling its 20th hole in section 10, township 46, range 29 and a good grade of iron and manganese is reported. Ore is reported to have been found in every one of the twenty holes put down.

Railway work on the Soo Line extension to the Iron Mountain Mining company is progressing favorably.

The Minnesota & International railway has its grading half completed on the 5.8 miles cutoff extending from West Brainerd to Leaks. Four camps are maintained. A shovel outfit is working a mile from the Northern Pacific railway hospital. (Continued on page 6)

Musical Comedy Treat

What is considered the biggest, best and most expensive production ever offered at popular prices will be at the opera house for an engagement of two nights, Saturday and Sunday, July 19 and 20. The piece is the original "Time, Place and Girl", the greatest musical comedy ever produced in Chicago. The company is under the direction of Boyle Woolfolk, who gave us "A Winning Miss," "Sunnyside of Broadway," and "Whose Little Girl are You." There are twenty-five people in the company and the original production is used. The cast could hardly be improved upon for musical comedy.

as well as entertaining them. It is a good thing for all boys and girls to read natural history. How much more beneficial it is to bring these animals before the eyes of the student where he may study them at close range.

In the Barnum and Bailey menagerie are 110 cages, dens, tanks and pens in which are to be found 1,200 animals. An instance of their great enterprise is found in the giraffe family. Here are five perfect specimens. One is twenty-two feet in height. Another is the only baby giraffe in America. It is worth its weight in gold.

Various other displays are a five-ton hippopotamus, a double-horned rhinoceros, bears from the Arctic regions and from a dozen other climates, wild boars from the German black forests, kangaroos from Australia, horned horses from Africa, forty elephants, thirty camels and dromedaries, herds of llamas and yaks, zebras, curious cattle, water buffalo, nyghaus, ibexes, gnus, vlak vaarks, hyenas, porcupines, tapirs, ant-eaters, ostriches, emus, chimpanzees, orangoutangs, caribous, sealions, seals, pecaries, wart hogs and all varieties of the cat, monkey and deer tribes.

N. D. DEMOCRATS DISAPPOINTED

LaMoure Family in the Saddle Even Though the Democrats Have the Appointment in Hand

The people of this city and county are familiar with the name of LaMoure and many of them are personally acquainted with Senator Judson LaMoure, who for some time made his summer home at Nisswa but who now lives nearly the year round at his residence on Portage lake, near Backus. Mr. LaMoure for years dictated the policy of the Dakota politics, as far as appointments went, and the following will seem to bear out the statement that his pull with the democratic administration is equally as strong:

"National and state administrations may change, but representatives of Jud LaMoure's family continue as customs collectors in North Dakota. This is emphasized by the fact that a Washington telegram announces the retention of Jud LaMoure, Jr., as collector at Pembina. The position had been eagerly sought by democrats, to whom the $3,500 salary looked attractive.

The official is a son of former State Senator LaMoure, a pioneer resident and one of the political warhorses of the state. For a score of years the elder LaMoure's father-in-law was collector of customs. Later Mr. LaMoure's son was named and he is enabled by his father's prominence and cleverness to retain the position despite national political changes, just as Senator LaMoure's father-in-law formerly did."

ELEPHANTS AND MEN BATHE

The Four Reels of Unusual Scenes Makes Hagenbeck Wallace Picture Great

Peoples and scenes that are unusual are the kind that appeal to the public. The managers are constantly looking for new subjects.

Perhaps not a person in this vicinity ever saw a man and elephant bathe together, or a man battle with a lion, and some never saw a man put his head in a lion's mouth, or a tiger ride a horse, but now everyone can have the opportunity to see all of the above, when the remarkable pictures of the Hagenbeck Wallace snows are exhibited here for the first time at the Grand theatre Sunday, July 20th.

The four reels contain almost one mile of intensely interesting film, and they provide an evening's profitable as well as amusing entertainment, with the further satisfaction of being genuine and original, entirely different from the usual picture show entertainment.

The exhibition of the Hagenbeck Wallace show pictures will prove to be a feature attraction in that line

Description of Cuyuna Range Power Co. Plant—Another Water Power Near Pillager

EVERYBODY INVITED TO COME

If You are a Booster for This Improvement Attest it by Your Presence

A meeting of supreme importance to every citizen will be held at the Gardner auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight to consider the street railway proposition. The franchise is to be the topic.

If you believe in this movement, if you think the time is ripe for expansion in Brainerd, if you want to boost the enterprise, if you want to express your views, attend the meeting tonight.

The opposition, if any, will be given the opportunity to air its objections.

Musical Comedy Treat

What is considered the biggest, best and most expensive production ever offered at popular prices will be at the opera house for an engagement of two nights, Saturday and Sunday, July 19 and 20. The piece is the original "Time, Place and Girl", the greatest musical comedy ever produced in Chicago. The company is under the direction of Boyle Woolfolk, who gave us "A Winning Miss," "Sunnyside of Broadway," and "Whose Little Girl are You." There are twenty-five people in the company and the original production is used. The cast could hardly be improved upon for musical comedy.

ELEPHANTS AND MEN BATHE

Peoples and scenes that are unusual are the kind that appeal to the public. The managers are constantly looking for new subjects.

Perhaps not a person in this vicinity ever saw a man and elephant bathe together, or a man battle with a lion, and some never saw a man put his head in a lion's mouth, or a tiger ride a horse, but now everyone can have the opportunity to see all of the above, when the remarkable pictures of the Hagenbeck Wallace shows are exhibited here for the first time at the Grand theatre Sunday, July 20th.

The four reels contain almost one mile of intensely interesting film, and they provide an evening's profitable as well as amusing entertainment, with the further satisfaction of being genuine and original, entirely different from the usual picture show entertainment.

The exhibition of the Hagenbeck Wallace show pictures will prove to be a feature attraction in that line

in The Gardner Auditorium

For a free expression of opinion upon the franchise now pending in the City Council.

Everybody invited to come and have his say. A special invitation is extended to R. R. Wise and his clique to appear and convince the Citizens of Brainerd that Mr. Wise and his little coterie are right and that everybody else in Brainerd is wrong in favoring this franchise.
